TAZ 19 Benchtype fume Adsorber

The TAZ 19 is a portable benchtype fume adsorber used in the fields of coverslipping and preparation of histological and pathological material as well as for decanting of solvents.

The steplessly variable suction capacity enanbles ideal adjustment to the individual requirements of the laboratory. When the filter needs to changed, a red warning light goes on.

With down-draught extraction and indication of filter saturation by means of a working hours counter it offers optimum user protection against odor and fume contamination.

The TAZ 19 is fully portable for use anywhere in the laboratory. The removable stainless steel working plate facilitates cleaning.
